State Group Not Covered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board has ruled that 39 employees of Arkansas Valley Industries, Inc. of Russellville, Ark., are agricultural workers and as such are not covered by the National Labor Relations Act.

The ruling came as the NLRB dismissed a petition for a union election filed on behalf of the employees by the Laborers International Union of North America, Local 107.

aimed for her to do so, but one can conceive of conditions under which China might misadventure," McNamara said. In addition to providing region-wide defense, some Nike X missiles will be deployed to protect American offensive missile batteries against Soviet attack.

But as McNamara portrayed it, the ABM decision was made primarily to counter a hostile China in three to five years—not to match the Soviet Union's deployment of antimissiles.

The Pentagon chief said he still opposes the idea of trying to defend against an all-out, sophisticated Soviet missile attack with antimissile missiles.

He warned danger exists in deploying even a light missile defense that "pressures will develop to expand it into a heavy Soviet-oriented ABM system."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have urged a wider deployment of an antimissile system to provide a general nationwide missile umbrella plus individual protection for 25 to 50 American cities.

McNamara said his $5 billion system would:

— "Have a much higher degree of reliability against a Chinese attack than the much more massive and complex system that some have recommended against a possible Soviet attack."

— "Provide an additional indication to Asians that we intend to deter China from nuclear blackmail."

— "Enable us to add a further defense to our Minuteman silos against Soviet attack" while "avoiding a much more costly expansion of that force."

— "Add protection of our population against the improbable but possible accidental launch of an intercontinental missile by any one of the nuclear powers."

Much of McNamara's speech to a United Press International meeting was devoted to explaining his view that the best way to maintain superiority over the Soviet Union is not by matching defensive moves but by maintaining superior offensive forces.

Antimissile Summary at a Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Here is a summary of the missile defense program announced Monday by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara:

The Cost—About $5 billion.
The Purpose—To provide protection for the United States against enemy nuclear missiles—primarily, McNamara says, the sort of attack Red China might be capable of launching by the early 1970s.

The Scope—One of the biggest strategic decisions in U.S. history, but not as big as the full anti-Soviet system some military and civilian leaders have called for, which would cost up to $40 billion.

Missile Battery Locations—Officially secret. Reportedly, several will be just below the Canadian border, and in the western and eastern seaboard, the Midwest, Southwest, and Deep South.

5 Revenue Employees Are Fired

By CRAGG HINES

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)—Five revenue department employees were fired last week for "not doing what they were supposed to" and drinking on the job, United Press International learned Monday.

Deputy Revenue Commissioner N.S. Hawley said the dismissed employees "knew it was coming."

"Some of them wanted to be fired," he said. "We are paying them through the first of the month."

Hawley said the men had an opportunity to "patch it up" about a month ago.

One of the men that was fired had been fired and rehired four or five times, said Hawley, who has been with the revenue department since 1940. He said one of the men came to see him Monday morning and was "so tight" he couldn't talk about it.

He said none of the dismissals had anything to do with the revenue department investigation into allegedly fraudulent issuance of drivers licenses.

"Two of the men who were dismissed didn't drink," Hawley said, "but they didn't work either." Hawley said he thought the men had the idea the dismissals were politically oriented, but Hawley, a Democrat, said the men should have been fired by any administration.

None of the men who were dismissed had been hired since Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican, took office in January.

"I think some of these men were wanting this so they could stir something up," Hawley said. Hawley explained he worked on the recommendations of department heads who had asked that the five be dismissed.

"I am positive one of the men fired Friday was let go in 1952 and then rehired," he said. "Other administrations just shouldn't have hired them."

"I wouldn't have hired them

cussions, through governments or individuals, conferences through the Geneva machinery or at the U.N."

Officials say a number of inquiries about the North Vietnamese attitude toward negotiation have been made since February—and will continue to be made—but there is still no sign of a possibility of starting talks on any terms which would be acceptable to the United States, South Vietnam and their allies.

The Ashmore-State Department controversy is the latest in a series going back to 1964 and contributing to public and congressional debate over the administration's handling of peace efforts. The State Department said in a statement the latest incident showed "the administration had been prepared at all times to cooperate with private individuals who may be in contact with Hanoi in any way, and who are prepared to act responsibly and discreetly."

"This policy continues," the statement said, "although it seems clear that the present disclosure will not reassure Hanoi that such private contacts will be kept secret."

to begin with. Some of these people can work for the state and government when they can't work in private industry."

Hawley did not identify the dismissed employees by name, but said one man worked as a desk auditor in the income tax department and two worked in the miscellaneous tax division investigating coin machines. The others he identified as holding desk jobs. He said one of the men earned $533 a month, three earned $500 and one man earned $450.

Hawley said it is possible others will be dismissed. He said he had heard some department heads discussing possible dismissal for other employees.

Other sources in the revenue department indicated that dismissals from the drivers licenses investigation were not completed.

300,000 Back in School at Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—School doors swung open today for 300,000 students in Detroit, ending a summer vacation that was prolonged by a 13-day teachers strike.

Teachers returned to their jobs Monday after winning an across-the-board raise over two years of $1,700.

In addition to the salary increase, $850 this year and $850 the next, the teachers won a reduction of the school year from 40 weeks to 39 and limitation of classes to 39 pupils. The ratification on Monday of the proposed contract, hammered out during early morning bargaining sessions, lowered to 13 the number of Michigan school districts where master contracts for teachers have not been reached.

In five of the unsettled school districts, teachers have been ordered back to work by court injunctions, although in one of them, Crestwood District in Dearborn Heights, most of the 211 teachers have resigned.

In the remaining eight districts, some 75,000 students are still out of school.

Lt. Gov. William G. Milliken on Monday asked the school boards in Bloomfield Hills, Oak Park, Dearborn and Menominee to get back-to-work orders from the courts.

Milliken, acting as governor during the absence of Gov. George Romney, said injunctions are being sought in Bridgeport, Highland Park, Hamtramck and North Dearborn Heights.

Detroit teachers, represented by Local 231, American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, ratified their new contract by a vote of 3,316-376 after union leaders told them "that is the best we can do."

The teachers demanded a $1,700 boost immediately when negotiations opened.

Under the old pay scale a beginner with a B.A. started at $5,800. A teacher with a Ph.D. and 12 years service could earn as much as $11,000.

The Board of Education said the new pact will cost $18.7 million over the next two years and will push the school system towards deficit financing.

$20 Million Bond Issues

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Education Department said Monday that about $20 million in bond issues will be decided by voters at the annual school election next Tuesday.

The agency said the largest bond issue is a $4.125 million issue proposed by the Fort Smith School District. Voters in the North Little Rock School District will consider a $4 million issue.

$20 Million for Rats May Pass House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, criticized for jokingly rejecting a $40-million rat extermination bill in July, is expected to approve an extra $20 million to fight rats in city slums.

But an economy mood on Capitol Hill threatens a proposed emergency allocation of $58 million to 143 critically overcrowded hospitals.

The rat extermination and hospital proposals are included in a bill up for House debate today which would provide $950 million through 1971 for various federal-state health programs.

The hospital aid amendment was added by the commerce Committee on a party-line vote. But Republicans plan an all-out drive against the amendment, whose chief sponsor is Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y.

Ottinger told the Rules Committee last week that while his proposal is backed by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Budget Bureau has not given its approval. The proposal would be for one year.

Rep. William L. Springer of Illinois, senior GOP member of the committee, said "it would be dangerous to adopt the scheme."

"The funds would quickly be taken up by a few hospitals with plans already formed principally in New York," he said. "This is a New York amendment and any congressman who has been sold on the idea that he may get a chunk of it for a hospital in his district is being taken in."

Strong bipartisan support is expected, however, for another unbudgeted proposal, an amendment by Reps. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and Charles Mathias, R-Md., to increase the $870 million allocated for project grants to the states by $20 million.

The amendment doesn't specify how this money is to be used by its sponsors make clear it is for states to establish rat control programs.

The administration proposal to step up two-year $40 million rat extermination program in the Department of Housing and Urban Development was rejected 207 to 176 by the House in July, but some opponents of the original bill say they plan to support the Reuss-Mathias amendment.

They argue that it makes more sense to expand an existing program than to set up a wholly new one, as was proposed in the administration measure.

Rap Brown Now Freed on Bond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — H. Rap Brown, Black Power advocate, was freed on $10,000 non-security bond Monday after four days in northern and central Virginia jails.

Within minutes after a four-hour hearing in U.S. District Court, the denim-clad chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was whisked from the city by his lawyers.

Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. said he was allowing bond on condition Brown restrict his movements to New York City, except when traveling to court hearings involved in the numerous charges against him.

Brown, 23, is due to appear Oct. 3 in Alexandria, Va., Corporation Court for a hearing challenging the legality of his arrest there as a fugitive from Maryland.

Brown is under indictment in Cambridge, Md., for inciting to riot and inciting to arson during a speech there two months ago.

Child Claims She Saw a Vision

QUEBEC (AP) — Hundreds continue to crowd into a tiny grotto where 8-year-old Johanne Allison says she saw the Virgin Mary Friday afternoon.

Quebec streets were heavily jammed over the weekend as word of Johanne's vision spread. The girl said the Virgin told her she would appear again Sunday noon but nothing happened and Johanne blamed it on the crowds.

Not Sure of Litigation Status of 3

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bob Scott, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's aide for prison affairs, said Monday he is unsure about the status of litigation of three prisoners on death row and has asked the attorney general's office to look into the matter.

Scott said the three prisoners, Frank Harris of Jonesboro, Albert Harris and Orion Trotter, were denied an appeal by the U.S. Supreme Court earlier this year. Scott said his files indicate that all 10 death row inmates are under stays of execution.

Scott said the governor's office would not take action until Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell supplied the office with some information.

Harris was sentenced to death for the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Dever and four of their children in 1963, while Harris and Trotter, both Negroes, were convicted of raping a white woman near Monticello in 1963.

The governor can set an execution date or commute the sentence once he has received formal notice that a stay has expired.

LBj Wants Action on Money Bills

By EDMOND LEBRETON
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked congressional leaders today to speed action on money bills so he can decide where to withhold spending in an effort to cut the deficit.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told reporters after a White House conference that Johnson believes there will be some federal spending reductions.

Such reductions, Mansfield said, will exclude defense and atomic energy outlays and automatic expenditures such as interest on the national debt.

"But they will include some projects pretty dear to the hearts of members of Congress," he added with a wan smile.

The Democratic leader said Johnson urged passage of his proposed 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes "as soon as practicable."

Mansfield added the President recognizes the House Ways and Means Committee, which must initiate such legislation, has the primary responsibility of deciding on the timing of any bill.

Asked how the decision to build an antimissile system would affect proposed expenditure reductions, Mansfield noted Congress already has provided the money for a start this year.

"I support Secretary (of Defense) Robert S. McNamara had no choice but to go ahead with it," he said. "I still hope, however, that we can negotiate an agreement with the Russians not to build a larger system."

Big Defense Contract

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Batesville Manufacturing Co., has received a $1,278,328 Defense Department contract to make fuses for arms it was announced Monday by Robert King, vice president and general manager of the firm.

King said 34 other firms competed for the contract and that this is the 11th competitive award won by the company since 1965. The contract calls for manufacture of more sophisticated fuses than are now made by the company, King said.

San Francisco to Get First Subway Tube

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two mechanical moles are burrowing quietly under Mission Street for San Francisco's first subway.

From the days of horse-drawn street cars, San Franciscans have traveled on the surface—except for tunnels through Twin Peaks. It's been by cable car, streetcar, trackless trolley or bus, linking with ferry boats or bridges.

Subway tubes, scheduled for completion in 1969, will be part of the 75 miles of the $1-billion San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District. The system will tie three counties together with 75 miles of subway, surface, elevated and underwater high-speed rail lines.

It includes five miles of twin and four-bore tubes under San Francisco.

The first of 18 tunneling machines and shields that will operate under San Francisco's streets began boring in mid-July.

Its 93-ton twin was lowered in September to the mud-splattered bottom of a four-story hole that marks their starting point at 15th and Mission streets. It will trail a safe 150 feet behind its companion as they cut mile-long twin bores to 8th and Market streets near the Civic Center.

The rest of the San Francisco tunneling will be carried out under eight other contracts. No other has begun. Some are still to be let. Stations, all to be built by cut and cover operations, involve still other contracts.

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

MRS. DAVID PEEBLES

Miss Linda Sue Baucum became the bride of David McQuiddy Peebles in a candlelight ceremony at 7:00 p.m. August 25 at North Street Church of Christ in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baucum of Fayetteville. Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Peebles of Hope are the parents of the bridegroom.

Mr. M. H. Peebles, father of the bridegroom, performed the double ring ceremony.

The vows were exchanged before an altar setting of tall baskets of white chrysanthemums and arrangements of emerald ferns. The altar was flanked by two branch candelabra holding white tapers and tied with yellow satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white peau de soie A-line dress with an Empire waist which was beaded over re-em-broidered hand-clipped Alencon lace. A grape pattern of pearls trimmed the long, tapered sleeves and bodice of the dress.

A full length chapel train provided the motif for beads over lace. A tiara of lace and pearls held her shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of yellow roses, white feathered carnations, and Stephanotis. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Linda Odom was maid of honor. Miss Wanda Foster and Mrs. Maxie Sims, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their formal length dresses of yellow crepe were accented with a bow at the waist.

Matching crepe circlets held their short veils. They carried colonial nosegays of yellow and white daisy chrysanthemums. Miss Vanda Jill Reed, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. She was dressed like the attendants and carried yellow and white daisies with daisy streamers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Sammy Peebles who sang "More" and "One Hand, One Heart" by the Harding Christian College A Cappella Chorus. Sammy Peebles, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and groomsmen were M. H. Peebles Jr. of Wolfe City, Texas and Dr. Larry Peebles of Texarkana, Texas also brothers of the bridegroom. Candlelighters were Roger Hughes and Michael Stonesifer, cousins of the bride. Ring-bearer was Milton Peebles of Wolf City, Texas.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Baucum wore a blue linen suit with matching accessories. Mrs. Peebles ensemble was of mocha silk shantung dress with beige accessories and both wore corsages of white glanellas.

Mrs. Mary Ann Brown presided at the guestbook. A reception was held at the Church following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white organdy over yellow satin and centered with yellow and white chrysanthemums with silver appointments.

Mrs. Bill Fraley, Mrs. Bruce Stonesifer, and Mrs. Arvil Hughes, aunts of the bride, presided at the reception table.

For travel, the bride chose a blue crepe suit trimmed in white. Her accessories were in white, and she wore a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Marsha Stonesifer, cousin of the bride, distributed the rice bags.

After a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains the new Mr. and Mrs. David Peebles will be at home at 225 N. Robey St., Arkadelphia, Ark. Mr. Peebles will be teaching at Henderson State College.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Network television's debutante season ended over the weekend with the introduction of three programs—a comedy series with possibilities, a children's adventure series and a private eye series.

The NBC comedy "Accidental Family" on Friday had Jerry Van Dyke playing a carefree nightclub entertainer in Las Vegas enjoying a bachelor existence until he is unexpectedly confronted with custody of the 6-year-old son he has not seen for three years.

The opening show was concerned with the reunion of the unprepared parent with a sad boy who feels he is not wanted. There were a lot of starts on plots to be made in that initial half hour so there was not much time left for comedy.

Van Dyke, the widower, had to get the child onto a distant ranch—he will commute to work by plane—and meet with his ranch manager who conveniently is a pretty divorcee with a young daughter. And a start was made on a break-through in the relationship of father and son.

The father role is something of a throwback to old situation comedies when daddies were inept dopes. This one apparently knows nothing about the world outside of nightclubs and poker parlors. Nevertheless there are indications that the series may build into something warm and pleasant. And, like "Family Affair," the youngsters may be the real stars of the show.

"Maya" on NBC Saturday was strictly for children. It is the improbable story of a 15-year-old American boy who learns, on arriving in India, that his father is presumed to have been killed on a tiger hunt. The boy runs away from the U.S. consul's office to try to find him.

He escapes pursuers and teams up with an orphaned Indian boy and his elephant, Maya, both also on the lam.

Filed entirely in India, there were some beautiful and interesting shots of the country, cities, villages and inside the walls of a maharajah's palace. But the chase scenes were much too long and there was a long, painful fight between Maya and a man-eating tiger.

Jay North plays the American and Sajid Khan is the Indian, neither having very demanding roles from an acting standpoint. The format is escape entertainment for kids, but it could have a better, tighter and more interesting show if cut in half to 30 minutes.

"Mannix," on CBS Saturday, was a simple, uncomplicated adventure story, full of fights and chases with the central character a private super detective. Mike Connors plays an operative who is quick with his fists and smart with his deductions.

The first episode had him called upon to solve the kidnapping for ransom of an ex-gangster's daughter. After a lot of physical action, Mannix decided it was a fake snatch—but he was far behind members of the sophisticated television audience who have seen something very similar on television numerous times before.

The Maltese cross has eight sharp points.

A PIERCING QUESTION—AGAIN

Dear Helen:
For ever so long I have wanted pierced ears. A few months ago my sister got her's done, without my father knowing it. But she's 20, so he didn't say much.

Now he says all us girls have to wait till we're 20. It isn't the money, as my sister is a nurse and she could do it for me—and anyway I'd pay for it and my earrings, from my own money.

Don't say to get the "pierced look" because they aren't the same.

My friends are all having their ears pierced now. How can I convince my Dad that 20 is too long to wait? —YEARNING Dear Yearning:

Best way to convince your father is: keep quiet and let your mother do the persuading. Perhaps he'll stop seeing pierced ears as misplace navels by your next birthday....And perhaps by then you'll no longer want them.

One caution: before the deed is done, have the doctor check you for possible metal allergies. Who knows? You might break out in a rash each time you put on an earring. —H.

Dear Helen:

I'm 16, strong and healthy, but Helen, I look like a Twiggy who has lost her baby fat. Everybody says I'm lucky, and besides I'll gain once I get married. Must I wait that long? And what kind of clothes will give me more of a figure? —SKINNY Dear Skinny:

If you knew how envious your chubby sisters are of you Twiggy-types, you'd stop worrying. The "starved look" is in, and most fashion models almost starve to achieve it. Stop worrying, but do drink a glass of rich milk AFTER (not before) all three of your daily squares.

Your clothes? Those wild horizontal stripes are made for you. So is anything swingy. Above all, don't try to hide your thinness with clothes that are too-large. Choose a size smaller than you usually wear and I'll bet you discover a figure that will surprise you. —H.

Dear Helen:

My step-father has always been good to my mother and us two girls. But lately I'm getting scared to be alone with him. I don't know how to say it because I'm not sure how he means it, but he just won't leave me alone. He only acts this way when my mother isn't home, and once he said I shouldn't tell her, as she is jealous of his "fatherly" love.

I don't think it's very "fatherly." Neither does my sister, but we can't tell our mother. She loves him very much. Besides, maybe we are wrong. What should we do? —PUZZLED AND SCARED

Dear Puzzled and Scared:
If your step-father says you shouldn't tell —his affection is not completely "fatherly," and you have a right to be worried. Let him know a step-daughter must be liked from a distance, and if he doesn't agree, you'll take it up with your mother.

The best way to settle this sort of problem is with an open discussion about a girl's privacy — which warns the man and alerts the mother without making nasty accusations. —H.

Dear Helen:

I have this friend who has been grounded for a month, just because she forgot to mail a letter. She remembered it after three days. The mailbox is only a block away, so her mother couldn't have done it herself. Is this fair? —CLOSE FRIEND

Dear Friend:

.....Depends on what went before. A teen is hardly ever grounded for just ONE lapse. Perhaps the letter was the last drop that broke the dam. —H.

Optimism in Teacher Deadlock

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — A ray of optimism today penetrated the previously deadlocked negotiations in the week-old teachers walkout which has kept most of the 1.1 million public school children from attending regular classes.

In a sudden move Sunday night, bargaining was switched from a mid-Manhattan hotel to Gracie Mansion, official residence of Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Albert Shanker, president of the 49,000-member AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, told newsmen:

"This marks the start of an attempt by the Board of Education to wrap up negotiations. I'm optimistic about the show of concern."

Shanker said there was a 50-50 chance of teachers returning to classes in the 900 public schools late this week.

But he added there could not be a waiver of a union mandate requiring a printed contract and 24 hours to study it before a ratification vote.

Shanker noted that talks, which had been going on since Friday, had been with School Supt. Bernard E. Donovan and Board of Education President

Are you an attention seeker? If so, you are living in the right era. According to the fashion reporting bulletin, the gals that make all the news are not indicative of the general trend. They are the extroverts and they are photographed because they are attention seekers.

Well, girls, this gives us food for thought. Just off hand, we like attention. However, we hate to try to get it by raising our skirts. We would much rather have someone exclaim over the color and texture of the new Crestmoor knits... mention the fact that they take ten pounds off your weight and... last but certainly most... the satisfied feeling in wearing a Crestmoor, shines right through!

Try on the costume... a one-piece dress with a full length coat. It comes in red, not just any old red, but that Italian red, like a Mediterranean sunset. It will cost $100.00 to $125.00, but just think... you have a coat to wear with other things, a dress for all occasions and a costume... don't you think it is worth it? We do because people are buying them.

Another Crestmoor that we like is the simple little two-piece toast colored casual with the black horizontal stripes in the overblouse. It is soft... like kitten's ears, it has long sleeves, it can be worn with furs or under your sport coat to a football game. You buy it and you will wear it any and every-where else. $60.00.

We have other knits but we would like especially to show you the Crestmoor. See them today exclusively in Hope at

Dame Pattie Keeps Cup for America

By SID MOODY
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — America yet retains her grip on some of her more prized possessions, such as the gold in Ft. Knox, the Liberty Bell—and the America's Cup.

Yachting's Holy Grail, which has never left these shores in the 116 years of its existence, will remain on the shelf of the New York Yacht Club for at least another three years. Instead, the American cup defender, saw to it that Monday by giving the Australian challenger, Dame Pattie, her fourth and final defeat.

The winless Dame put up a game fight in moderate winds which she was designed for but, as Jock Sturrock, her skipper, said after the race: "We didn't go fast enough."

"When we arrived in the United States, we were confident, but we knew we had a tremendous task. But there is no doubt the best man, the best crew and the best boat won the America's Cup."

Intrepid's helmsman, Bus Moshbacher, dripping after being tossed into the harbor by his victorious crew, agreed.

"Our feeling is one of almost awe with the boat and sails we were given to work with. There is no question in my mind we had the fastest 12-meter yacht in the world and the best crew in the world."

Undaunted by America's decisive 20th straight defense of the cup, the British challenged for the trophy minutes after Commodore Percy Chubb of the New York Yacht Club stepped ashore.

The challenge, for 1970, came from the Royal Dorset Yacht Club of Weymouth, England.

Sturrock said perhaps the principal factor in the Australian shutout loss was that Dame Pattie had been designed to a specific condition: The 11-knot winds that blow on average in September on Rhode Island Sound.

Monday's race finally brought the conditions the Australians were waiting for: 12-knot winds from the southwest that moderated to 10 at the race's end.

But Intrepid won by 3 minutes, 37 seconds.

Both yachts received a deafening salute from the few spectators which stuck it out to the end.

Card Office Didn't Wait for Team

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The front office of the St. Louis Cardinals didn't bother to wait for the team to clinch the National League pennant. The club announced Monday it will begin accepting World Series ticket orders on Friday.

The third, fourth and fifth games of the series are to be played in St. Louis Oct. 7, 8 and 9. Bad weather could alter the schedule, as could a playoff in the American League. The series is scheduled to begin Oct. 4. Here are procedures for ordering tickets:

1. Orders will be accepted for two sets of tickets (two tickets each to game 3, 4 and 5).
2. A check for $49 must accompany each order. ($8 each ticket and $1 handling and mailing charges).
3. Orders must be postmarked only Sept. 22. No other dates will be considered.
4. Checks must be payable to "St. Louis Cardinals, Agent."
5. Checks should be addressed to "World Series Tickets, P.O. Box 8888, St. Louis, Mo., 63102."
6. A large self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed.

Three Have Piece of First Place

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Boston's Jones boy and Minnesota's Jim-dandy are sitting pretty today, but it's still four for the seasaw in the American League pennant playoff.

The Red Sox outslugged Detroit 6-5 on Dalton Jones' 10th-inning homer, the Twins squeezed past Kansas City 2-0 on Jim Kaat's 10-inning six-hitter and California unseated the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in Monday night's renewal of the Great Race.

When the dust settled, the Red Sox, Tigers and Twins all had a piece of first place. It was a four-way deadlock until Rick Reichardt's RBI single in the ninth inning at Anaheim sent the White Sox reeling all the way to fourth place. . . one-half game off the pace.

Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 2-0 in the other game on the AL schedule.
St. Louis nailed the National League pennant with a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia while Houston pounded Pittsburgh 14-
4, Cincinnati shut out Atlanta 4-0 and the New York Mets trimmed Los Angeles 7-2.

Jones, a former bonus baby making only his third start this month, beat the Tigers with his fourth hit of the night after Carl Yastrzemski's 40th homer pulled Boston even in the ninth.
It was the Red Sox' first victory in four starts.

Yastrzemski, who paces the league in homers and RBI, also drilled a double and single to wrest the batting lead from Baltimore's Frank Robinson with a
.314 mark.

Yastrzemski's ninth inning shot against Fred Lasher gave the Red Sox a lift after Norm Cash poked two homers for Detroit and Jim Northrup's run-scoring double in the eighth gave the Tigers a 5-4 edge.

"In that situation, I was going for the home run," Yastrz said.
"There was no doubt about it."
Kaat, who went into the Kansas City game with an 0-4 season record against the last-place A's, held them in check and struck out 12 before Ted Uhlaender's single and an error by center fielder Joe Mauer sent two runs home in the 10th.

Jim Catfish Hunter, who scattered three hits until the 10th, was the loser as the Twins ended a three-game losing streak.

"I was due for some luck against these guys," said Kaat, who has won five straight for a 14-13 mark.

The White Sox managed just one hit against California rookie Ricky Clark until the eighth inning, when Jim Fregosi's error helped them push over two unearned runs for a 2-2 tie.

But Don Mincher singled against Chicago relief ace Bob Locker with one out in the ninth and pinch runner Roger Repoz tagged up and made second on Jimmie Hall's long fly to center.
Reichardt then came through with the winning hit to center.

Notre Dame

Victories by Southern California and UCLA during college football's initial big weekend have moved the West Coast teams into solid positions in the Associated Press poll.

The first poll of the regular 1967 season finds the Trojans in fourth place, a gain of three positions over their preseason rankings, and the Bruins in the
No. 6 spot, two places higher than in the pre-campaign estimate.

Notre Dame, Alabama and Michigan State are 1-2-3 in that order, the same positions they occupied in the preseason ratings. The three play their first games this weekend, the Irish against California, Alabama against Florida State and the Spartans against Houston.

Texas is fifth while Georgia is in the No. 7 slot followed by Miami, Fla., Colorado and Nebraska.

In the initial season balloting by 36 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's national poll, Notre Dame collected 22 votes for first place and 309 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Two Razorback games will be telecast this year, both in color
from Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium. The games are the Texas battle on Oct. 21 and the
Texas Tech game on November
25. The Texas match will be on national TV, and the Tech game

Surprises Feature Pro Openers

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sportswriter

Due to the beginning of the college and pro football season, this column will be expanded to take up some subjects on many different phases of football.

The National Football League
opened its regular state last Sunday, and several surprises came forth, the biggest being the Detroit Lions, who fought the Green Bay Packers to a 17-17 tie.

The Lions had a poor exhibition season, losing to the AFL's Denver Broncos, and also several other clubs who had not been figured to provide Detroit much opposition.

Sunday was the Lions' day to shine, though, jumping to a 17-7 lead in the first half before the Packers came to life. Bart Starr and co. finally came around, however, and only an outstanding defensive effort could hold the tie for the Lions. As predicted, the Dallas Cowboys and the Philadelphia Eagles opened with wins, and the Pittsburgh Steelers slammed
the surprisingly weak Chicago Bears 41-13. The other games went as scheduled, except for the New York Giants' 37-20 conquest of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Down closer to our level, most of the major college teams hit the field for the first time Saturday night, and some of the matches should be dandies. Of course, the U of A Razorbacks host the Oklahoma State Cowboys at Little Rock. In other battles the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, picked by many for the national crown, begin their campaign at home against the California Golden Bears. Poor California. An upset in the making is possible as the Texas Aggies, losers to SMU 20-17 last week, play host to the Purdue Boilermakers. Don't count the Aggies out, but Purdue is one of the Big Ten favorites.

And in a battle of ranked teams,
the Texas Longhorns take on Southern California in the opener for both squads.

Looks like another strong year in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, where an encore seems possible from the threeway tie for the title in '66. State College (ASTC) is always a favorite, but Harding, Ouachita, and Arkansas Tech will make it a big mess come November. Right now, though, the State College Bears, backed by the passing of Bob Tinsler, should take the rare undisputed championship in the AIC.

Thinking about it, out fine state of Arkansas has produced a bunch of great coaches around the nation. The prize filly is Bear Bryant of Alabama. He has the Crimson Tide and its fans believing anything he might do, the highlight coming at last January's Sugar Bowl, where pictures were distributed showing the Bear performing the art of walking on water. By the way, Bryant comes from Fordyce. Charlie McClenden of LSU, mastermind of the Tigers' 14-7 upset of Arkansas in the 1966 Cotton Bowl, comes from Lewisville.

The U of A in Fayetteville has produced many top-notch coaches, the most successful
being Doug Dickey of Tennessee, who as coach of the Vols has a record of 20-10-1. This year he has a power out of Knoxville, and on October 21 the Vols take on Alabama, the same day that Arkansas plays Texas. What a doubleheader that would be for national TV.

Two Razorback games will be
telecast this year, both in color
from Little Rock's War Memorial
Stadium. The games are the Texas battle on Oct. 21 and the
Texas Tech game on November
25. The Texas match will be on national TV, and the Tech game
on regional telecasts.

Phillips May Be Redshirted

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —
Terry Don Phillips, a junior,
will be redshirted this fall, University of Arkansas Coach
Frank Broyles said Monday.

Phillips started at defensive tackle as a sophomore and finished fourth in defensive statistics with 40 tackles, 25 assists, one pass play stopped and a fumble recovery. He injured his back shortly before fall practice began and then reinjured it about two weeks ago.

The 6-foot-1, 210-pound Phillips is the younger brother of All-America Loyd Phillips.

"He won't play in the first two or three ball games," Broyles said. "And we'll probably redshirt him."

The Razorbacks worked out for about 100 minutes Monday and then heard the scouting report on Oklahoma State. Arkansas opens its season Saturday night at Little Rock against the Cowboys who played a scoreless tie with Air Force last week.

G&F Refuses to Back Down on Program

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The
members of the state Game and Fish Commission said Monday that the recently adopted statewide game management plan had been thoroughly studied and refused to back down on any part of the plan.

Four groups appeared before the commission and asked for changes in the plan adopted last month.

The first group asked the commission to allow deer hunting
west of the Congo Road in District 12. The District includes Pulaski County and portions of Perry, Saline and Lonoke counties.

District 12 will be closed to deer hunters during the first and last hunting periods.

Sam Smith of Lonoke County
asked the commission to close the two-day doe season in the southwestern section of District 13 which includes Lonoke County. He said residents of the area were afraid the season would work a hardship on the doe herd.

A group from Logan and Yell counties protested the regulation that will disallow the use of dogs in Districts 10 and 22. The group contended that the deer hunters who use dogs did not have enough time to find another place to hunt.

Another group, representing the foxhunters of Pope and Johnson counties asked that the limits of the Big Piney Game Management Area be moved northward. A spokesman said the present area was too narrow to run dogs and that it would be impossible to keep the dogs from going into the national forest.

"They're good; they can be great," says Broyles. "We have
more speed, agility, and tackling ability here than we had in our linebackers on our last three teams."

The speed and agility will allow Matthews to crash his linebackers more than the Razorbacks have in the past few years.

"We're planning to run
through with them or red-dog
it," said Matthews. "We're doing a lot more of it than last year. We've still got inexperienced people at those tackles.
We penetrated last year as
more of a change of pace."

"One thing about those sophomores... they love contact," said Matthews. "They are not a damn bit shy."

Matthews Is Proud of Linebackers

By HARRY KING
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —
Wilson Matthews, who coaches Arkansas' linebackers and defensive ends, said Monday that the Razorbacks' sophomore linebackers were an unusually talented group but emphasized that they are sophomores.

"This is the best group of linebackers we've had," said Matthews who joined head coach Frank Broyles at Arkansas 10 years ago. "We've always had one real good one except maybe last year but not two or three like we do this year."

"But, there is nothing like that game experience," Matthews said.

The sophomores, Lynn Garner of Fort Smith Northside, Cliff
Powell of Eudora and Guy Parker of Houston figure to get plenty of experience early.

Garner and Powell will probably start Saturday night against Oklahoma State at Little Rock. It is the first time in the past 10 years that the Razorbacks have lined up with sophomores at both linebacking spots.

"They are fine prospects and fine youngsters," Matthews said. "There is not any doubt that some day they are going to be good linebackers."

"I think they know they are playing a tough position. As much as we do we have got to expect some mistakes but we're going to try to avoid making the same mistake. The big concern is how much calling the defensive signals is going to cut down on the raw, natural ability to hunt for that football."

Garner, a true soph who was selected as the outstanding lineman in the 1966 High School
All-Star game, will call the defensive signals. He is the first sophomore since All-America Ronnie Caveness to handle the job.

"He has shown the ability to check defenses in practice,"
said Matthews of the 197-pound Garner. "He has done a good job in practice."

Powell is also listed at 197 but Matthews says he may be a bit larger than Garner.

"Powell may be a little stronger on playing things right at him but Garner is a little quicker and reacts a little better to passes," said Matthews.
"If they stay that way they'll really complement each other."

Broyles said the linebackers have "more speed than we've had since Wayne Harris and Gerald Gardner in 1959."

"They're good; they can be
great," says Broyles. "We have
more speed, agility, and tackling ability here than we had in
our linebackers on our last three
teams."

The speed and agility will allow Matthews to crash his linebackers more than the Razor-
backs have in the past few years.

"We're planning to run
through with them or red-dog
it," said Matthews. "We're doing a lot more of it than last
year. We've still got inexperienced people at those tackles.
We penetrated last year as

Sportsmen Have Code to Follow

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants and Washington Redskins have just finished their National Football League game and the rival coaches—Alie Sherman and Otto Graham—make the way to the center of the field. There they are seen counting studiously on their fingers. Then each signs a paper and turns it over to the stripe-shirted referee.
"Hey, just a minute, Sherman," the referee says. "You have the score 38-22, New York. It was 39-22. You missed that last extra point. I'm sorry, you're disqualified. The game goes to the Redskins."
Silly? Ridiculous? Maybe, but hardly more so than the archaic code under which our tournament golfers are asked to operate.
A couple of weeks ago, Dick Mayer hit a ball down the fairway and as he walked to the site saw a kid reach down, pick up something and take off. He played a provisional ball.
"Did you actually see the boy pick up the ball?" a PGA official asked Mayer after the round.
"I saw him pick up something—I assumed it was my ball," Mayer said.
"Makes no difference," the PGA official said. "You should have gone back to the tee and played it as a lost ball. Sorry, but you're disqualified."

Whereas in most big time sports athletes seek every edge, in golf they are taught to blow the whistle on themselves.
Such honesty is creditable but the fairway sport reaches the high point of ludicrousness in the matter of scores cards.
It's the only sport in the world where the competitor not only must concentrate on the game at hand but also must keep tab of every shot he makes as well as every shot made by a playing companion.
The golf code says you must count every shot, then sign it like an affidavit. Most tournaments have nice ladies going around with pencil and paper keeping score. But they're only window dressing. Their scores aren't official.
British Bids on Minesweepers
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LONDON (AP) — A British bid to win a multimillion-dollar contract to build nine minesweepers for the U.S. Navy will go through despite a congressional ban on the use of 1968 defense funds for foreign warship orders, qualified sources reported.
Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has told his British counterpart, Denis Healey, he can count on building the nine minesweepers if the British bid is the lowest, the sources said.

The Soybean Often Sheds Bloom, Pod

Hempstead county soybean growers should not get excited if they see blooms and pods on the ground after adverse weather conditions. Blooms and pods are often shed by the soybean under shock conditions when temperature extremes, prolonged droughts, excessive rains, shade effect or a hail storm takes a heavy toll of the blooms and pods, says County Extension Agent Calvin J. Caldwell.
He adds, "The soybean plant is capable of producing about three or four times as many blooms as normally set. Pod loss doesn't mean necessarily that the grower will produce or get less money for his total production. In fact, the soybean plant with favorable environmental conditions may well compensate for pod loss by increasing seed size in the pods that remain."
Mr. Caldwell says, "Generally speaking, a loss of about 10 per cent of pods can increase seed size. However, removing 80 per cent of pods may only cut the yield in half because of this increase in the seed size. Loss of pods causes larger and heavier seeds."
Mr. Caldwell says, "The removal of leaves after the pods are set and mature, however, decreases seed size and also total production. Mr. Caldwell points out, Removing the leaves late in the season can decrease the protein and oil content. Fewer leaves mean less nourishment for the large number of seeds. This is one of the reasons why it is not advisable to defoliate soybeans two to three weeks prior to maturity and has been reported to decrease yields where this has been practiced. The plant is physiologically mature when the leaves drop normally. So, defoliating or removing the leaves by chemicals is not advisable under good soybean production practices, the County Extension Agent said.

Oklahoma State Has Injuries

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma State went through a light Monday practice in sweat clothes, still unsure whether quarterback Ronnie Johnson will be back for the Arkansas game Saturday.
Johnson fractured a small bone in his right hand and missed most of last Saturday's 0-0 opener with Air Force.
End Harris Penner, who hurt a knee in the game, and tailback Larry Gosney, who missed the first game with a dislocated elbow, are also question marks.
"It's my fond hope that Johnson, Penner and Gosney will be ready to play Saturday," coach Phil Cutchin said.
Cutchin named offensive center Jon Kolb and linebacker Rick McCain as co-captains for the Arkansas game.

Frazier and Mathis May Meet as Pros

NEW YORK (AP) — Unde-feated Buster Mathis and Joe Frazier, amateur rivals in the Olympic Trials three years ago, appear to be heading on a collision course in the pro ranks today.
"I want Frazier," bellowed Buster, trimmed down to a svelte 239½ pounds, after he dropped 186-pound Ron Marsh five times in stopping the fighting Kansas schoolteacher in 1:13 of the fourth round at Madison Square Garden Monday night.
The onetime 300-pound blimp may get Frazier but not right away. Frazier, 17-0, ranked first by Ring Magazine and eighth by the World Boxing Association, has an Oct. 17 date with Tony Dohle in Philadelphia for Oct. 17. He saw Buster's debut as Garden main eventer.
Buster, now 21-0 with 15 knockouts but unranked, may take on faded Brian London of Britain for promoter Ingemar Johansson in Stockholm or Goteborg in late October or early November. Johansson, the former heavyweight champion, saw Buster demolish the out-weighted, outgunned and outsped Marsh and then talked business with Jimmy Iselin.
Iselin is Mathis' manager and one of a syndicate of wealthy young men backing the 23-year-old thick-necked giant from Grand Rapids, Mich.
Mathis beat Frazier in the Olympic Trials in 1964 and then beat the Philadelphian again shortly afterwards in a workout in California. But Buster broke a thumb and Frazier replaced him on the team.

Hog, Wash. May Change

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—One thing to be decided in today's primary election is whether this southwest Washington Columbia River city should change its name.
Backers of the proposition said a change would avoid confusion with Vancouver, B.C., just across the Canadian border on the other side of the state.
If the change is approved, the City Council then will have to decide on what the new name will be.
Many suggestions already are in, including one to call the city Hog, Wash.

He Didn't Want to Try to Fix the Wall in the First Place

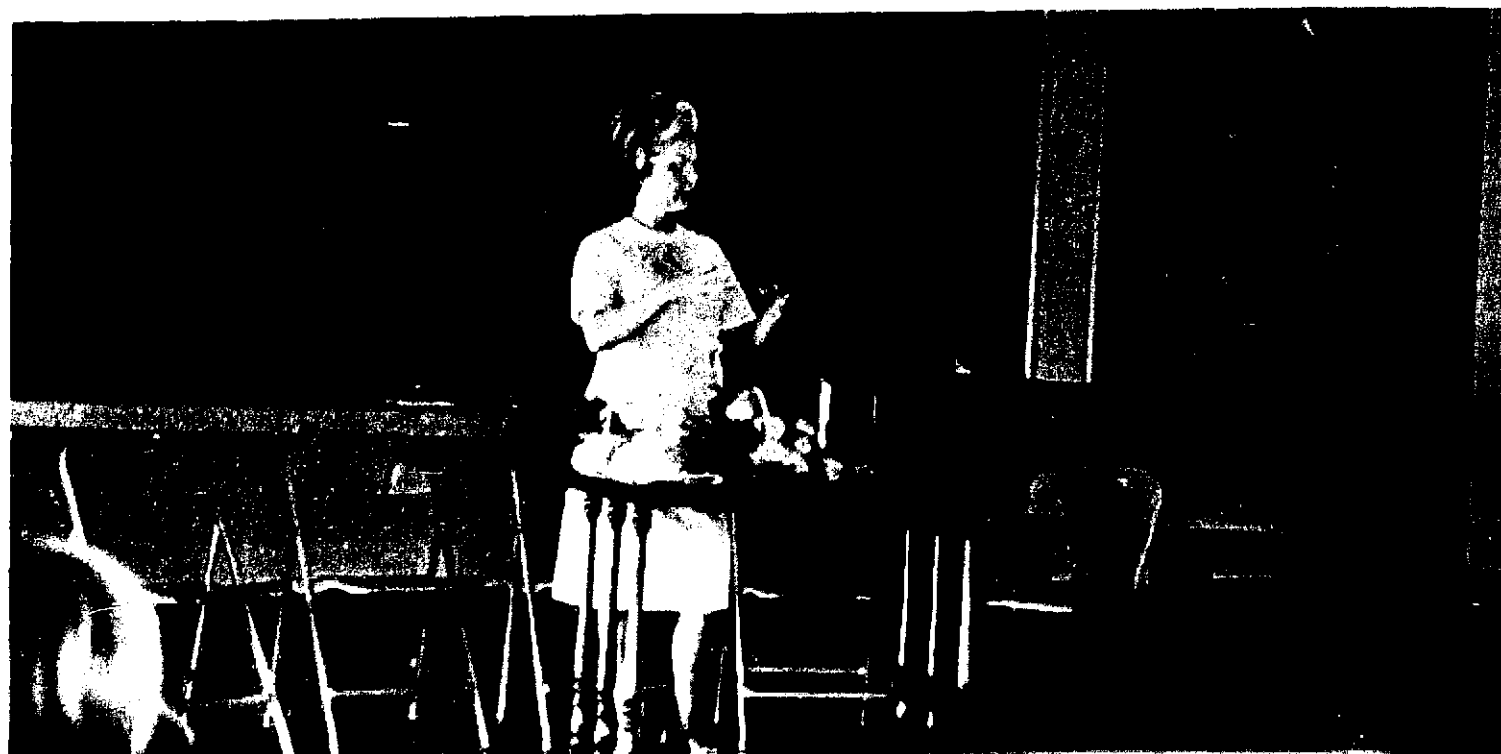

By GEORGE MOSES
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — It was several weeks ago that my wife first noticed some insulation sifting out of the basement wall. It dusted her washing machine like an occasional snow flurry, only it was brown. Lucile—that's her name—suggested I find out what needed doing, and do it.
A member of that frustrated legion whose do-it-yourself talents are limited to replacing light bulbs, I looked hard at the insulation gap. It was oozing from a hole where a vent-heating, I think, and the foundation didn't quite come together.
It looked to me like a grave structural flaw, and I said as much.
In fact I said, "This looks like a job for a contractor."
Lucile said that was silly, especially with the dentist being as patient as he was about that old balance on the bridge job.
The insulation continued to sift ominously onto the washing machine. I decided to devote part of a recent weekend to demonstrating the job was beyond me.
I began pulling at the bulging material and it came away readily. I shoved my hand deeper into the hole and felt something move. I also felt a searing sting on two fingers and jerked my hand back.
With it came 20 sleepy bumblebees, getting their first look at the outside world, and a handful of little white eggs. These fell into the box I had placed on the washing machine.
Other bees, seemingly less sleepy, began flying out of the hole.
I grabbed a rag and stuffed it into the hole. My wife ran for outdoors with the box of bees and near-bees.
Then we began killing basement bees with flyswatters. Except for the two that had stung me, they were as sleepy as they were huge, and we got them all.
The rag in the hole seemed a frail defense against those still poised in their nest of insulation.
I took a can of insect spray. With Lucile ready to bat clean-up with a swatter, I jerked out the rag and let fly with the spray.
It was a close thing. Bees kept advancing over the bodies of their fallen comrades, I kept spraying and my wife kept swatting.
The bee charge slowed to a trickle, then stopped. I gave the hole a final burst, jammed the rag back into it, and gently keeled over.
If time had permitted reading instructions on the insect bomb,

Loaned Experts Instructed
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Newsome of Chicago, vice president of Warren Kling and Associates, Inc., told the business executives on loan to the state Governmental Efficiency Study Commission Monday that they should deal only with administrative and operative functions.
"It will be an awful temptation to step in and debate professional functions," Newsome said. "But, we as a group are not competent to make any such evaluations and we won't."
The group met for the first time Monday. Newsome's management survey firm is in charge of the commission's study.
Newsome said no attempt would be made to take into the activities of the legislative end of state government. He said the study groups must file their reports by Nov. 25 so a full report can be filed with the commission by Dec. 23.

WIN AT BRIDGE

'Swindle' Was Just Bad Play

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Victor Mollo, one of England's greatest players and writers, has produced a humorous book on play entitled "Bridge in the Menagerie."

The two principal characters in his menagerie are an obnoxious expert called the "Hideous Hog" and an unfortunate dub called the "Rueful Rabbit." The rabbit does everything wrong. The hog tries to play every dummy, usually at no-trump, and continually brings off most absurd swindles.

Today's hand shows the rueful rabbit bringing off a defensive swindle of his own. West's opening lead of a low diamond was most unusual but he had no decent lead and anyway we are interested in the rabbit, sitting East. Declarer played low from dummy. The rabbit played his jack and was surprised when he held the trick. Then he returned the queen to his partner's ace. The partner led a third diamond and anyone but the rabbit would have ruffed. In that case declarer

"Going, Going, Gone!"

Customs that endure for 2,500 years are rare enough to command respect. The auction is that old custom. Known in the days of ancient Babylon, it is still working its magic spell on buyers of everything from silver snuff boxes to great works of art.

The essence of an auction (from the Roman word for "increase") is open competitive bidding. And it is to preserve this essence that the law has established certain basic rules of the game.

One key rule is that bids must be legitimate, not just "puffing" to artificially jack up the price. Thus, a buyer at an auction was allowed to back out of his purchase when he discovered that a rival bidder had been hired secretly by the seller to make fake bids.

"The offer of property at public auction," said the court, "is itself a proclamation by the seller that the highest bidder, in a fair and open competition, is to obtain the property. Any secret understanding, calculated to thwart this end, is a fraud upon the innocent."

But if the law frowns on tactics that artificially push the price up, it also frowns on tactics that artificially hold the price down. For example:

A man at an auction pretended to be bidding on behalf of a local charity. Reluctant to compete with such a good cause, other bidders kept silent—and the man got away with a bargain.

But his bargain was cancelled in a courtroom when the truth came out. Again, the evil lay in tampering with the basic competitive process.

Like any other contract, the sale at an auction is not complete until there is both an offer and an acceptance. The offer is the bid itself, which may be conveyed by anything from a wink of the eye to a snap of the fingers—just so the auctioneer gets the message.

The acceptance is usually conveyed by the banging of the hammer on the block. Until that moment, a bidder is ordinarily free to withdraw his offer.

But once the hammer falls, the deal is closed. The bidder, whether to his delight or to his chagrin, has made a binding contract of purchase. That far-lined bathtub is now his.

And so is the bill.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Diagnosis Is Called for When Chest Pains Occur

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I am 75. Sometimes when I take a deep breath or when I go out of the house I get severe chest pains. What sort of tests would I have to take to find the cause of this?

A—The chief causes of pain in the chest are pleurisy, tuberculosis, heart disease and arthritis involvement of the ribs. Diagnostic procedures would include a careful history and physical examination, chest X ray, electrocardiogram and tests for pulmonary function.

Q—My husband has interstitial pulmonary fibrosis. What is it and what can be done for it?

A—When an excess of tough fibrous tissue forms in the lungs it is known as interstitial pulmonary fibrosis. Since this decreases the elasticity of the lung tissues it makes breathing difficult. It may be due to a variety of causes and the cause should be determined, if possible. In many victims relief has been obtained with hydrocortisone.

Q—My grandson has a fungus infection in his lungs. Is it serious? What is the cause and what is the treatment?

A—There are several fungus diseases that may affect the lungs—cryptococcosis, histoplasmosis, coccidioidosis and candidiasis, to name a few. The severity of these diseases is variable. Amphotericin B and other antibiotics are used in their treatment.

Q—Does a fungus infection in the lungs mean cancer?

A—No, a fungus infection in the lungs does not mean cancer.

New Machines Are Bringing Improved Streets to All Sections of the City

The first step in the Slurry Seal process is loading the truck tanks with asphalt emulsion and water. Two tanks hold 420 gallons of water and the emulsion. Left to right in picture: City Engineer and street superintendent David Peters, Operator Wendell Avery and driver James Hall on the truck.

The above picture shows the Slurry machine on East Second street last week. This seal was done after the street was leveled with reclaimed asphalt from Third street. Second street was sealed from Shover to the end of the street. Henry Chappel is shown at left pulling slurry onto a side street.

The second step is to load the machine with five (5) yards of crushed stone.

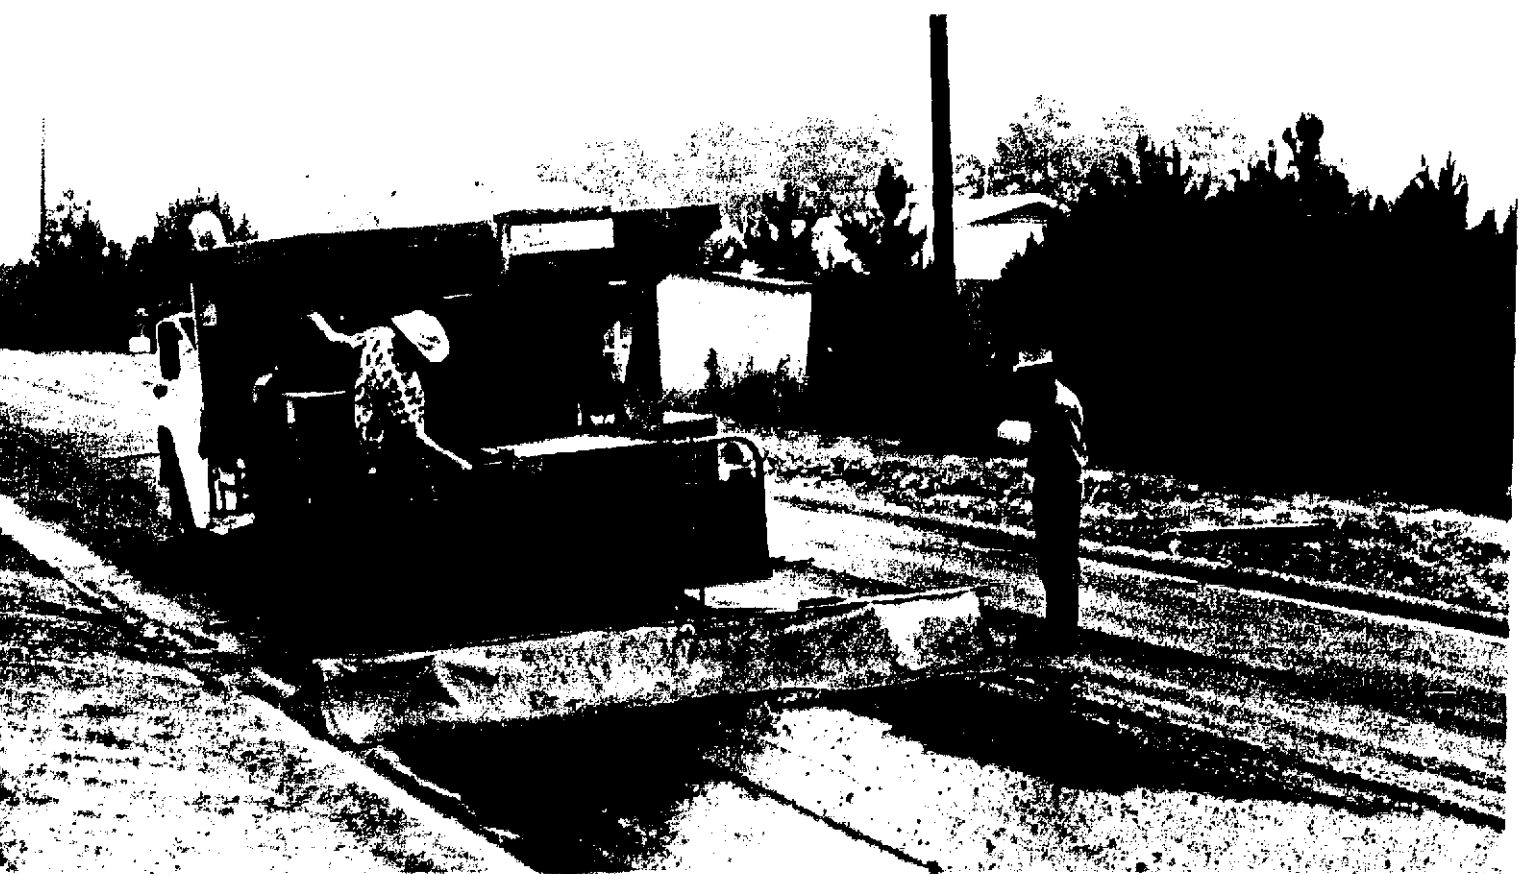

Pictured above is the new street sweeper purchased by the city for use in the street department. This machine will enable this department to better maintain the streets. The machine picks up four (4) cubic yards of material off the streets before it is dumped. The machine picks up an average of twenty (20) cubic yards of dirt, paper, leaves, grass cuttings, beer cans and debris in an 8 hour work shift. This machine replaces one which was used for eight years before being retired.

The final ingredient to go into the Slurry machine is Portland cement. The hopper on the machine holds

After the machine is loaded, the "laying" process begins. This picture shows the machine on South Grady street in Southland Heights putting down the first of two courses over primed base. Wendell Avery is on the machine with Henry Chapel assisting. This work being done in Southland Heights is a result of the property owner agreeing to pay the cost of curb and gutter and the city agreeing to do the remainder of work, storm drainage, base material and surfacing. The city is making this offer to residents all over the city in residential areas.

Lebanon Is Hurt by Lack of Tourists

By LYNN HEINZERLING
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — "Are you a tourist?" the Lebanese customs man asked with an obvious accent of disbelief. Assured otherwise, the smiling official said he hoped at least the visitor was "for the Arabs."

Beirut Airport, normally one of the busiest in the Middle East, looked like a new kind of tomb. The downtown hotel, usually fully booked through the summer, had 25 guests. The restaurant was an expanse of untouched white tablecloths and shining glassware.

Everything seemed to be in place in Beirut, a handsome and sophisticated city which attracted 600,000 tourists last year.

Huge colored signs still urged the missing visitors to see the Holy Land in comfort, visit Egypt, explore Baalbeck and try the exotic dishes of three continents. But the people with the cameras were not there. Lebanon, which hardly fired a shot in the Arab-Israeli war, lost its tourists, at least for this season. And the future does not look too bright unless peace comes to the Middle East. The way to the Holy Land now leads through Israel.

The contrast between Tel Aviv and Beirut is glaring. Tel Aviv hotels have been bursting all season, restaurants jammed and tourist agencies hopping. Jerusalem, without barbed wire and bunkers, is only an hour away.

Scores of buses, which early in June were transporting Israeli troops to the front, made a quick transformation after the six-day war and spent the season taking tourists to Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Jericho and other Israeli-occupied tourist attractions on the west bank of the Jordan River.

Mansour Shallita, director of Lebanon's Council for Tourism, and other tourist officials have tended to dismiss the debacle as a bad summer after a bad war. But hotelkeepers have been demanding tax exemptions, reduction of their electric bills and long-term loans to assist newly built hotels.

The hotelkeepers even committed the ultimate heresy of asking that Lebanon open the border post with Israel at Nakoura so foreign tourists would have easy access to Jerusalem and other religious shrines now controlled by Israel.

This would be an open admission that Israel exists, and no Arab nation can take such a step unilaterally without risking the condemnation of the Arab world and even bloodshed.

Before the war Lebanon attracted many tourists who, after a stay in Beirut, flew on to Jordan to proceed with their pilgrimage through the Holy Land. The journey also could be made by road through Syria.

To reach Jerusalem now, it is necessary to go to some point outside the Arab world to make the flight to Tel Aviv.

Lebanon has other attractions such as Baalbeck with its ancient ruins and the mountains of the interior. Thousands of wealthy sheikhs from the oil kingdoms of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait normally leave their baking oilfields each summer for the cool mountain resorts.

This summer even the sheikhs, preoccupied by the oil boycott, forsook Lebanon.

The drop in tourism led to a slowdown in trade generally. The construction business came to an almost complete stop after the war but is resuming slowly. A few days of riotous behavior by pro-Nasser elements in Beirut caused thousands of foreigners to leave the country. They are returning as confidence in the country's stability is restored.

Security Chief Mugged, Robbed

NEW YORK (AP) — The security chief for the Israeli consulate general was mugged and robbed of $410 Thursday on a Harlem street.

Nachem Gur-Arie, 43, told police he took the wrong bus as he left his Manhattan West Side hotel to shop for furniture. He has been here only a week.

One man came up behind him and wrapped his arms around his neck, Gur-Arie told police, and the other took his wallet. Then they threw him to the ground and ran.

Goldwater Has Manual for Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential hopefuls have available a manual on political infighting by Republican Barry Goldwater. Goldwater, discussing his losing bid for the White House in 1964, told how his lieutenants silenced the opposition at the GOP convention in San Francisco where he won the nomination on the first ballot and of a Key-stone Cops caper involving Humphrey's plane crew.

"I will not reveal the names of people responsible, but we had every cable of every television company and every radio company marked up in the loft of the Cow Palace" in San Francisco, Goldwater said. "If anybody got a little too obnoxious," he said, "they could always have cable trouble."

"These are the things that you do," Goldwater said in a National Educational Television network interview Monday night. "It is perfectly fair in love and war."

Whoever wins the GOP nomination next year, assuming President Johnson runs again, will be facing what Goldwater calls "probably the cutest, smartest, throat-cuttingest political operator I have ever run into."

But Oregon Democratic Party officials said Republican Gov.

Nelson A. Rockefeller could beat Johnson, at least in Oregon, as things stand now.

They also maintain GOP Gov. Ronald Reagan of California also would be a strong candidate but that Rockefeller is the only Republican who could actually win.

Reagan ruled out today setting up any Reagan-for-President campaign organization before the GOP convention, reiterating he isn't a candidate. However, he said he will set up an organization in California to handle the June presidential primary campaign for the favorite-son delegation he intends to lead to the convention.

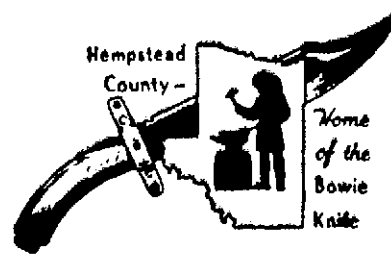

Rockefeller, continuing his efforts to halt any speculation about his candidacy, turned down Reagan's invitation to visit California for a conference of governors on state medical care programs. He said such a meeting might have "presidential implications."

Gov. George Romney of Michigan, another top GOP presidential prospect, plans to attend part of Reagan's session.

Romney found pleasant but small crowds during a visit to Indianapolis — and no state Republican leaders to greet him.

Indiana GOP leaders have opposed visits to that state by potential presidential candidates until after a Nov. 7 election for mayors of 113 cities. Romney says his visit wasn't political. He is touring American cities.

Centennial Reprint
Completed, But No
Copies for Sale

Yesterday's Star carried the last of the 1936 Arkansas Centennial Edition reprints — winding up a series of 24 2-page inserts which ran all summer.

Subscribers taking out these inserts and stapling them together found they had a reconstructed version of the old 48-page newspaper.

It was a service performed entirely for the benefit of our subscribers, and there are no extra copies for sale. We do have a limited quantity of the 24 editions in which the 2-page inserts appeared, but these aren't arranged by entire "Centennials" — you would have to pay $2.40 for the 24 papers, pull out the inserts and staple in a single edition yourself . . . hardly an inviting job.

Shreveport Journal published some mention of our Centennial reprint venture and so I have two inquiries from Shreveport and two from El Dorado asking for the complete edition — of which there is none. But these people do have the option of buying the 24 daily editions and making up their own "Centennial" — which our subscribers received piecemeal "for free."

Our judgment in making this 31-year-old reprint was confirmed by the public's response. Local history is interesting to today as when I compiled it in 1936. Of course there was a nostalgic feeling on my part. Those 1936 photographs were the first I ever made professionally . . . and I still have all the negatives.

It was a lucky day when I bought a press camera for the newspaper and began exploring the far reaches of photography. I did not know, 31 years ago, that the newspaper business was destined to switch to the photographic system of offset printing — but what began in 1936 found us ready and waiting when The Star fired up its new offset plant Dec. 29, 1965.

And it was the photographic offset process which enabled us to make the reprint of the old 1936 edition. It would have cost $5,000 or more to reset the Centennial in type and re-engage all its pictures in the old letterpress system — but we photographed it for offset for practically nothing.

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — Charles Tackett, 24, of Springfield, and Turner Lee Boyles, 36, of Indianapolis, Inc., two prisoners who escaped from Cummins Prison Farm Friday, were captured Monday.

Pentagon Planning Warhead Interceptors in All Areas of U.S.

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's plan to build a $5 billion Nike X antiballistic missile system will provide each region of the United States with at least one battery of far-reaching warhead interceptors.

Defense scientists made this clear today in guarded interviews about Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's so-called "light" defense against nuclear attack, primarily directed to guard against a potential threat from Red China.

The decision to proceed with deployment of an antimissile system was announced by McNamara Monday in a speech to news editors at San Francisco.

Although the plan he announced is one of the biggest strategic decisions in U.S. history, it is not the often-discussed full-blown antimissile system which would have an estimated cost of up to $40 billion, McNamara opposes such an outlay.

The exact locations of the antimissile batteries, each with several missiles, remain a closely held secret. But one Pentagon official familiar with the plans said the main line of defense will center on several antimissile complexes stationed just below the Canadian border.

Other antimissile sites will be interspersed along the western and eastern seaboard, in the Midwest and in the Southwest and Deep South. Each site will be protected by a battery of Sprint missiles.

Government sources also indicated Canada has given the United States permission to establish one of the vital missile-detection radar sites on Canadian territory near the Great Lakes.

Suit Against T.J. Silvey Dismissed

CALICO ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Chancellor P. S. Cunningham of Walnut Ridge has dismissed a taxpayers' suit asking that T. J. Silvey be enjoined from serving as superintendent of the Calico Rock School District.

Cunningham said Monday he had sustained a demurrer, filed by Silvey's attorneys, which asked that the suit be dismissed because the charges were too general. He said the plaintiffs could file another suit.

Some 300 persons filed the suit in July, charging that books teaching the theory of evolution were used in the school district in violation of state law and that Silvey had charged students for transporting them to various activities. The suit also charged that Silvey used tax-exempt gasoline in vehicles other than his own.

Plots Told to Follow Road

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — The delegation of students marched out onto the field to face the pair of military helicopters that had settled there.

"Can we help you?" they asked.

"Yes," one of the pilots said. "Where are we?"

He explained that the two U.S. Army troop-carrying craft had taken "off" from nearby Norton Air Force Base Monday en route to Stockton, Calif., but turned back because of clouds over the mountains.

Then, he said, they couldn't find the base again.

The Catholic high school's principal, the Rev. Robert J. Magler, telephoned the airbase, and the pilots were instructed to follow a road to the base, which was nearby.

ing to Pentagon scientists, is far more advanced than the only other missile defense in existence, the Soviet ABM.

Its prime purpose: to defend against what McNamara termed a possible irrational nuclear missile attack by Red China in the 1970s.

"It would be insane and suicidal," he said.

Episode Gives GOPs Ammunition for Charge on Administration

Ashmore Claim Is Disputed

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top officials say the United States will cooperate with private probes for peace in Vietnam even though they sometimes lead to bitter dispute over the Johnson Administration's sincerity in seeking peace.

The latest uproar erupted when Harry S. Ashmore, executive vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions and a former prize-winning newspaper editor, charged President Johnson wrecked a hopeful peace move with a tough letter to President Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam last February.

The State Department, rejecting the charge Monday, argued Johnson's letter enlarged U.S. offers of negotiation to North Vietnam.

Ho turned down the Johnson proposal. It called for setting the stage for peace talks by halting U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam and stopping the U.S. military buildup in South Vietnam if Ho would stop infiltration into the South.

Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy said Ho's response to Johnson and to other peace probes conducted in February meant "Hanoi was not ready to move toward peace at that time."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk repeated the administration stand that the United States is ready to negotiate with Hanoi anytime the North Vietnamese indicate they are "prepared to do something constructive" to end the war.

Rusk told a luncheon audience Monday in Detroit: "We are interested in direct discussions, public or private; indirect dis-

Nat'l China Embassy in Saigon Hit

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP) — Communist terrorist blew up the Nationalist Chinese Embassy in Saigon's busy downtown section today and Red agents gunned down two prominent Chinese elsewhere in the capital.

South Vietnamese police said the blast that brought down the two-story embassy and an exchange of gunfire with terrorists killed one person and wounded 27. Fears spread of a new Red terror campaign in Saigon.

On other fronts U.S. planes raided inside North Vietnam's port of Haiphong for the second straight day Monday and Communist gunners rained a torrent of shells on U.S. Marine outposts below the Demilitarized Zone.

Throughout South Vietnam ground action was scattered.

A female terrorist pumped two shots into the chest of Col. Charles T. Chung, chief intelligence officer of the Nationalist Chinese Embassy, shortly after the embassy bombing. Later police arrested 20-year-old Phung Ngoc Anh, a Chinese girl. They found her with a .45-caliber pistol.

Chung was in critical condition.

Monday night several terrorists went to the home of a prominent Chinese professor in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter, called him outside and shot him to death. They escaped.

Carrier-based Navy planes blasted Hiphong's main bridges and rail yard and hit at least four sites for Soviet-built missiles around the city.

The Communists claimed five planes were shot down. But the U.S. Command reported only the loss of an RF4C reconnaissance plane in another area. The plane's two crewmen were missing.

Communist shelling along the Demilitarized Zones killed three Marines and wounded 34 in the past 24 hours. Red gunners also raked Con Thien, the main American post on the embattled frontier. In one barrage Con Thien caught more than 200 shells.

Two Held in P.O. Burglary

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — Two men arrested in a hotel here were jailed Monday on a federal charge of burglarizing a post office in Alexandria, La.

They were identified as Billy Don Thompson, 24, of Texas, Kana, Tex., and Louis Ray Jones, 25, of Texarkana, Ark. Bond was set at $3,000 each.

A total of $800 in postal money orders and some $600 to $700 in cash was taken in the Aug. 14 post office burglary, Police Chief James L. Cathey said.

Ashmore classified himself among the vigorous war policy critics when he identified himself with "the eclipsed Adlai Stevenson wing of the Democratic party" and as a confidante of Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Beulah Hits South Texas With Fury

By GARY GARRISON
BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)

Hurricane Beulah, already a killer, swung toward Brownsville at the mouth of the Rio Grande and the lower Texas coast today with ominous fury.

Unless the massive storm again changed course, Beulah threatened a devastating strike through the citrus groves of Texas' lower Rio Grande Valley, laden with a multimillion-dollar crop, and up the coast past Corpus Christi, a busy port, tourist center and site of a big naval air station.

At 6 a.m. EDT the Weather Bureau issued emergency hurricane warnings for the Gulf coast from Brownsville to Port Aransas, a short distance beyond Corpus Christi, and gale warnings for the sector from Port Aransas to Galveston, more than 300 miles northeast of Brownsville.

Late Monday night the 11-day-old hurricane, responsible for at least 22 deaths in a vicious sweep through the eastern Caribbean and across Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, slowed its advance toward the west northwest and turned erratic.

Once more describing Beulah as a severe and dangerous hurricane, the Weather Bureau urged immediate precautions for the alerted areas.

"Present indications are that the center should move inland near the mouth of the Rio Grande tonight and then turn northward paralleling the south Texas coast," the 6 a.m. advisory said, predicting a gradual increase in its 8 m.p.h. advance toward the northwest.

Winds were expected to hit hurricane force of 75 m.p.h. up on the extreme lower Texas coast by early evening and elsewhere along the state's lower coast by late tonight or Wednesday.

Coast Guardsmen on Lower Padre Island, a short distance north of Brownsville opposite Port Isabel, reported most of the 300 persons in that tourist and fishing resort were evacuating.

Authorities said there might be a more general exodus of residents in this vicinity later in the day.

The Texas coast had been under a hurricane watch since Sunday morning.

Oil companies began moving workers from offshore drill rigs as far up the coast as Louisiana.
